Sauce for the Gander

onsistency must ever be the crowning jewel in the diadem of the anointed. And inasmuch as the Journal of the American Medical Association is the anointed power of the institution it represents, we must look there for a lavish display of consistent acts. Ever and anon the Association's Journal, now sans peur, sans reproche, ('twas not ever thus) takes a fall out of some thrifty, perhaps striving, journal because the latter does not find it consistent with its mode of thinking and its spirit of independent cogitation to conform in every particular to the rules that now govern the Association's Journal. Therefore it is but just that we ask the Journal to show the same critical sense of its advertising pages that it demands of others.

A recent issue of that Journal contains the advertisement of a book, now appearing in its fourth edition, which advertisement, because of its indecency and obscenity, outranks in relative harmfulness any dozen or more misrepresented preparations that formerly found a welcome home in the Journal's advertising pages, and have now been numbered with the outcasts.

We are not concerned with the subject matter contained in this book; it matters little whether the book was begotten in virtue or in sin; whether it be a treatise scientific beyond reproach—giving forth much needed information on sexology to the un- and mis-informed profession, or a cleverly constructed medium through which, in the guise of science, to pander to the lowest instincts of the second, third and fourth edition readers. Our protest is directed to its foul advertisement as carried in

We take pleasure in announcing the appearance of the Fourth enlarged and revised edition of a treatise on the normal and pathological emotions of feminine love by

"WOMAN"

The fact that within one year three new editions were needed to supply the demand, speaks for the excellency of the work.

The book is devoted to every phase of Woman's sexual life and thought. It is made up of short chapters tersely written with unusual force and clearness.

To illustrate the manner in which the subject has been treated we quote the titles of some chapters:

Sexual Instinct, Emotions of Puberty, Libido, Sexual Organs During the Act, Internal Organs During the Act, Internal Organs During the Act, Internal Organs During the Act, The Course of the Act, The Organs, Semptome of Libido, Intensity of Libido, Duration of Copulation, Frequency of the Act, Hygienic Duration of the Act, Prevention of Conception, Means of Sexual Excitement, The Moral Law, Evolution of Marriage, Chastity, Ideal Morality.

Orders will promptly be filled on receipt of the price.

the Journal. We here reproduce the announcement, omitting the name of the book and that of the publishers, because of our disinclination to further its sale by any form of publicity.

We would call attention to the further fact that the paragraph headings here reproduced are not those contained in the book in this form, but are selected from several chapters and published in the arrangement as here presented in order to stimulate the reader's "libido" for an acquaintance with the original. Though the facts may be otherwise, there is hardly a line in the advertisement to indicate that this book contains anything but the veriest filth.

This advertisement arouses our disgust.

WMJ (ISSN 1098-1861) is published through a collaboration between The Medical College of Wisconsin and The University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health.
