

Call for Papers

a special issue on the impact of Race & Racism
on health in Wisconsin

January/February 2021

Sarina Schrager, MD, MS, Interim Editor-in-Chief, WMJ

The Wisconsin Medical Journal (WMJ) is seeking papers that examine the impact of race and racism on the health of people in Wisconsin. These papers will be published in a special theme issue. Priority will be given to papers that:

- Examine the implementation and dissemination of evidence-based interventions.
- Include multidisciplinary approach and multi-sector approaches, including the role of coalitions and community-based interventions.
- Include Wisconsin-specific data and interventions.
- Describe the role of physicians and the health care system.
- Consider policy, systems, and environmental approaches.

Authors should refer to the Instructions for Authors for manuscript guidelines (<https://wmjonline.org/for-authors/instructions-for-authors/>). We will consider peer-reviewed submissions (ie, original research, review articles, case reports, and brief reports), as well as editorial-reviewed submissions (ie, commentaries, "As I See It," letters, and editorials).

Deadline for Submissions: November 1, 2020.

Visit www.wmjonline.org
to learn more.

advancing the art & science of medicine in the midwest

WMJ